THE GRAND GALA

The Culmination of our 125th Anniversary Year

The Grand Gala: Windows Through Time – a celebratory evening of food, drink and song – will be held on Sunday, December 8, 2019, beginning at 5:30 pm, at Beth Abraham.

The Gala Committee, under the leadership of Marlene Pinsky and Maryann Bernstein, has planned what will most definitely be an elegant affair – starting with the beautiful invitations we recently received, continuing with delicious appetizers and beverages, including a signature anniversary cocktail, at an open bar, then a wonderful dinner and dessert presented by Bernstein's Fine Catering and concluding with fabulous entertainment by Six13, a Jewish a cappella musical group (to get a sneak preview of Six13, visit the group's website, www.six13.com).

Please make your reservations as soon as possible by returning your response card or going online to RSVP. The seats are filling up fast!

The Grand Gala is the culminating event of our anniversary year. Let's fill the synagogue halls. Let's toast our achievements. And let's celebrate as we recall our wonderful history, as we rejoice in our successes and as we renew for the future. And, starting in 2020, let's resolve to maintain the enthusiasm as we add new chapters to our wonderful history.

Decade Shabbat Nov 16th: Our Years at Sugar Camp

The 4th Decade Shabbat will be held Saturday, November 16, 2019. This Shabbat we will focus on the Sugar Camp years, beginning with the time leading up to the move and then from 2008, when we moved to Sugar Camp, to the present day.

The Decade Shabbatot Committee, led by Ralph Williams and Adam Feiner, are again planning a Shabbat experience filled with fun and surprises.

At services, we will recognize those congregants who played vital roles prior to and during the move to Sugar Camp. We will also feature our newest current members, as well as our future members. In addition, we will enjoy the D'Var presented by Rabbi Bernard Barsky, who provided spiritual assistance during these critical years that facilitated our decision to make the move.

Then, at the Kiddush lunch following services, we will share memories of this focus period, review the final edition of the BAS Chronicle that once again will beautifully and creatively recall these Sugar Camp years, review the timeline for this period and the memorabilia at the history table.

We are excited to share this Shabbat together as a community as we recall our most recent history and all that has brought us here to today. Please join us!

The hectic holiday season from Rosh Hashanah to Simchat Torah may be over, but the pace has not slowed down at Beth Abraham. I am happy to report that our new educational program, GOAL!, has started off with a bang.

The Sunday between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur was our first official synagogue event. Prior to the program, congregants from across the spectrum joined forces to help fight hunger both here in Dayton and across the globe. 20 participants, from our youngest students to senior members, signed up to raise funds and walk a 5K route, representing the distance that some people must walk to obtain clean water. Team Beth Abraham brought in nearly 25% of the funds raised for this year's CROP Hunger Walk. Our group of 19 walkers was the largest group in attendance. But before we headed to Island Metro Park for the walk, we engaged in serious Jewish text study to prepare. Ten adults gathered to grapple with Torah and Mishnaic texts about our obligations to care for the poor and hungry. They embraced the ancient texts and proposed ways to carry out the imperatives in the 21st century. At the same time, our youngest learners studied some of the same texts in a way that spoke to them. The groups came together and were challenged to create a menu for a family of four who rely on SNAP benefits (formerly Food Stamps). The almost impossible task drove home the point of the difficulties facing so many in our community.

The holidays are always an opportunity to celebrate with community. We are happy that so many families, from near and far, joined us for Rosh Hashanah and Simchat Torah at the conclusion. Children had meaningful holiday services and activities with Sandy Sloane-Brenner while adults found inspiration in the sanctuary services. Families and others came to decorate the synagogue sukkah and then enjoyed Pizza in the Hut, brought to us by the Men's Club. Children were able to make their own, customized mini-pizzas with the help of Men's Club members. We thank you!

November brings two more GOAL! congregational programs. On Saturday evening, November 9, is our Making "Sense" of Shabbat program. The program begins at 5:00pm and will end shortly after Havdalah at about 6:30pm. We will share some songs as Shabbat winds down, enjoy some snacks and engage in activities to make us more aware of our 5 senses and how those relate to Shabbat. We will conclude with Havdalah. Please let us know if you can join us.

Also in November, on Sunday the 17th, we are teaming up with Temple Israel and Temple Beth Or for the Global Day of Jewish Learning (see www.theglobalday.org for more information). This community program will take place at Temple Israel. The theme for this year's international day of study is "Speaking Volumes." Words have power to affect the world around us. Children, Pre-K through High School from the 3 congregations will learn together with age-appropriate activities and adults are invited to attend the Ryterband Lecture that morning, featuring Rabbi Richard Sarason of Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati. The morning begins at 9:00 for children and their families. Other adults may arrive at 9:30 for a brunch preceding the lecture. Please note that there is a $7 charge for the brunch and Ryterband lecture. The morning will conclude at about 12:15. This program is open to anyone, from toddlers to adults.

There are more interactive and innovative programs yet to come in conjunction with the GOAL! Program and we do hope to see everyone along the way.

The Shofar of Life

Rabbi Joshua Ginsberg

“For years,” writes New York Times writer Ralph Blumenthal,

“there have been fragmentary reports of almost unbelievable acts of faith at the Nazi death camps during World War II: the sounding of shofars, the ram’s horn trumpets traditionally blown by Jews to welcome the High Holy Days.” Although these stories of the persistence of hope even in humankind’s darkest moments have been passed down, most have been based on limited evidence and eyewitness detail. The following story has been embraced by several historians as reliable. Although the High Holidays are in the rearview mirror, I still wanted to share it with you.

Let me take you back 75 years, to Auschwitz, in 1944, and a man named Chaskel Tydor, who was 41 years old. Chaskel was an older prisoner. He was a block secretary, responsible for assigning work details. What the Nazis never discovered is that Chaskel would often attach names of those who were already killed to certain assignments, affording others relief in the sick bay. This saved hundreds of lives.

And on Rosh Hashanah 1944, 75 years ago to the day, he arranged to send some prisoners out to the forest. They formed a minyan. And when they returned, they told Chaskel that someone managed to hide a shofar. And they sounded it on that day. In an act of great defiance to the murderous Nazis, this minyan sounded the shofar. The sounds of the shofar pierced the heavens, begging, screaming, for a year when all of the horrors of the past would be behind them.

Soon after, when the person who snuck that shofar was dying, he pressed a rag-wrapped object into Chaskel’s side. He gave Chaskel that shofar, and told him: “I’m going to die on this march. If you live, take this shofar. Tell them we blew this shofar at Auschwitz.” Chaskel survived. A few months later; off the coast of Haifa in the land of Israel, on Rosh Hashanah in 1945, he blew the shofar.

This story came to light when Chaskel’s daughter, a Holocaust

He gave Chaskel that shofar, and told him: “I’m going to die on this march. If you live, take this shofar. Tell them we blew this shofar at Auschwitz.” Chaskel survived. A few months later; off the coast of Haifa in the land of Israel, on Rosh Hashanah in 1945, he blew the shofar.

historian, Dr. Judith Tydor Schwartz, told the story to the curator of the Museum of Jewish Heritage in New York. Dr. Schwartz told him that she still had the shofar. The curator asked, “Had it ever before occurred to you to offer it to a museum?” “Oh, God no,” she said, “We use it.” Dr. Schwartz commented: “If it’s one thing I know from all the thousands of survivors I interviewed, it’s that the impossible was possible, both to the bad and the good.”

The Nazis committed the most heinous, the most atrocious, the most violent acts that our world has ever seen. They defied what humans have ever been able to do to kill one another. And yet, there were also moments where people like Chaskel, like that minyan, like so many in the Holocaust, defied the possible.

People who acted with such strength, courage, and faith.

People who sounded the shofar, calling to God, enough is enough.

People who sounded the shofar, calling to God, saying, let this coming year be different.

The shofar will not be sounded for another year, but we still feel the reverberations of their call.

May their call remind us of their strength and give us the strength to stand up for ourselves and what is right and good.

May their call remind us of their courage and give us the courage to face our challenges and difficulties.

May their call remind us of their faith in a brighter future in even the darkest moments.

Let us call out to God, to say, let this coming year be one with more peace, with more safety, with more protection.

May we find the strength, courage, and faith to do our part in making that happen.

Our first Friday Night Kids Shabbat was a success and enjoyed by all who attended! We sang Shabbat songs together, participated in reading a story, said the blessings over the candles and wine, ate dinner and dessert, along with making a craft with beads. We are excited to offer this program again on Friday, November 22nd beginning at 5:00 pm. Bring the kids and grandchildren for a warm welcome to Shabbat!

LIFE & LEGACY

Help Assure Beth Abraham's Future

"We came to Dayton 26 years ago knowing virtually no one. Beth Abraham became a focal point in our lives and helped us adjust to our move. It now has become family to us. We want Beth Abraham to be here for other Jews who move to Dayton in the future." ~ Ralph & Diane Williams

All of us, regardless of age or wealth, have the ability to leave an after-life legacy, whether as a bequest in a will, a gift of life insurance, a gift of IRA or pension funds or simply cash. Please contact Elaine Arnovitz at the synagogue office (937-293-9520 or elaine@bethabrahamdayton.org) to set up a meeting to discuss what best fits you.

Tree planting for our 125th Anniversary

"It is a tree of life to those who take hold of it, and those who support it are praiseworthy."

As part of our 125th anniversary celebration, we planted a tree at the lower level entrance.

A tree is a powerful Jewish symbol for us as individuals. As our Rabbis teach us, Torah is a "tree of life" to those who embrace and act upon its teachings.

This tree is also a powerful symbol for our year-long anniversary synagogue celebration! As a sapling, we RECALL our synagogue roots; as it grows and expands, we REJOICE in our synagogue's continued successes; and just as this tree annually sheds and replaces its leaves, we all can act to ensure that Beth Abraham will continue to RENEW itself from generation to generation far into the future.

Today, we kvel as some of our Sunday School students gaze upon this now tiny tree. And, with our nurturing, at our next anniversary celebrations, we are confident that the children and grand-children of these students will be pictured beside a fully grown tree.

A Message From Mike

Mike Freed, Beth Abraham President

This is Mike's address to the congregation on Yom Kippur.

Good morning and Good Yuntif. Last year at this time, I stood before the congregation and talked about the early plans for our 125th Anniversary Year celebration and the message of Recall, Rejoice and Renew that was chosen to guide the year-long effort commemorating our anniversary year. It has been an extraordinary year of celebration as we have Recalled our history, Rejoiced in our achievements and Renewed our commitment, spiritually, communally and financially to the synagogue. It has been a commemoration of the past, the present and the future of Beth Abraham that has quite simply far exceeded all of my expectations.

From the fabulous kick-off weekend with Professor Jonathan Sarna in conjunction with the inaugural Ruth Scheuer Life Enrichment Series, to the Spirits of our Past cemetery tour and toast, to the first three of our Decade Shabbat services, to the Kaleidoscope of Us program, we have been blessed with a year of meaningful, fun and informative programming. And there is still more to come as we look forward to the final Decade Shabbat service November 17th and the Grand Gala celebration December 8th. YES, it has been a truly remarkable year of special events for our 125th anniversary. For me though, it is just as remarkable thinking about all that regular work we do, every day, every week, every month, throughout the year, to meet the varied religious, spiritual, educational and cultural needs of our congregation and our members.

YES, we continued to provide meaningful and rewarding religious and educational experiences. There were our weekly Shabbat services, maintaining Dayton's only daily minyan and our holiday services and programs. We began efforts this summer, led by Cantor Raizen, to re-envision our religious school program by introducing the GOAL! program. GOAL, standing for Go Out and Learn, is intended to be a comprehensive Jewish educational program serving the entire Beth Abraham community, young and old, in engaging learning opportunities both here at the synagogue and beyond our walls.

YES, we continued our efforts to build a community among all members of the congregation. We held three very successful Guess Who's Coming to Shabbas? dinner evenings in addition to two Friday evening Shabbat Under the Stars services. We held special Shabbat services honoring our new members as well as our annual Sisterhood and Men's Club Shabbat. And again this year we joined together with Corinthian Baptist Church to host our annual joint commemoration of the life and legacy of Martin Luther King.

YES, we continued our long tradition of active engagement with social action projects including our annual Fast of Isaiah food collection at Yom Kippur, food barrel collections throughout the year, collecting household items to assist Rwandan refugees and packing supplemental food boxes at the Foodbank for local seniors in need. And when the Memorial Day tornados struck, our congregation stepped up without fail, as we always do, to help our neighbors in need by donating food, supplies, and personal care items.

YES, it is remarkable all that we do, big and small, to offer such a full range of successful ritual, spiritual, educational and social programs. But, our ability to maintain these programs for many more years, depends on our ability to generate the necessary financial resources to fund the operation of the synagogue. Thankfully, our membership dues income held steady this past year. Our Giving Societies program, which has been a wonderful success since its inception, continues to help by providing extra financial support beyond member's dues.

But as we know, the total of our membership dues and our Giving Societies contributions do not cover the costs of running Beth Abraham. In fact, they cover only about two-thirds of the expenses associated with the operation of the synagogue. This past year, we had the further financial challenge of funding the unexpected costs of security measures implemented after the Tree of Life synagogue shooting last October. These efforts to address protecting the building and safe guarding our congregation unfortunately do not show any indication of abating, so we must continue to commit financial resources to these efforts now and well into the future. While we have been fortunate again to receive bequest income that allowed us to balance our budget for the full year, counting on unplanned bequest income to close our budget gap is not a sustainable approach for financial stability.

That is why the work we began over the recent years is so vital to assure our long term financial stability. We approved the resolution to transfer our cemetery assets to the new Jewish Cemeteries of Greater Dayton and remain hopeful that the community cemetery will come to fruition alleviating a long term financial commitment from our books. We continue efforts to garner commitments from congregants to make after-life legacy gifts to Beth Abraham through the Grinspoon Life & Legacy program in partnership with the Jewish Federation Foundation. As part of our planning for the 125th Anniversary, we established The 125 Fund to raise funds to defray the costs of the numerous events organized as part of our celebration and to build our endowment fund to support future activities. Like the Life & Legacy program, the response to The 125 Fund has been very positive and we anticipate having a significant balance of funds left at the end of the year that we can transfer to our reserves.

Recently, we took the first steps in addressing one of the major structural drivers in our operating budget, our building occupancy costs. Building costs represent the second largest expense category in our budget. At our September Board meeting, the Board of Directors unanimously approved moving forward with a series of projects that will separate our building from the Sugar Camp campus utility systems. Being able to independently manage our utilities will provide significant financial benefits to the synagogue and represents a major step forward in addressing our structural budget challenges.

Library News - Off the Shelf

Allan Spetter

The synagogue library book collection includes a candid, fascinating autobiography of Vera Weizmann, wife of

Chaim Weizmann, first president of Israel. Described as Israel's first First Lady, she dictated her memoir to David Tutaev. It has a unique title, The Impossible Takes Longer. The Weizmanns believed in what others thought impossible, the creation of the State of Israel. The Weizmanns would form a powerful couple.

Both born in Russia, Chaim would be recognized at a very early age as a scientist of great potential and Vera would study medicine in Geneva, where she met Chaim in 1900. They did not marry until 1906. Chaim had been invited to join the staff at a university in Great Britain. Vera reveals that when she joined him in Great Britain she did not know a single word of English. Throughout these early years, Chaim emerged as perhaps the most eloquent spokesman for the Zionist cause, especially after the death of Theodor Herzl in 1904.

Chaim made his first trip to Palestine in 1907 and returned an even more dedicated Zionist than ever. Meanwhile Vera, after additional medical studies, began to work as a physician in 1913 and the family finances finally began to prosper. Then came the outbreak of World War I in late 1914. Chaim offered his services to the British government, Vera does not deal with the "urban legend" that the British government rewarded Weizmann for his service with the Balfour Declaration.

Instead, she goes into great detail about how Weizmann worked tirelessly to persuade prominent Jews in Great Britain, including those working at various levels for the government, to support the idea of a Jewish homeland in Palestine. In any case, Weizmann made a great contribution to the British war effort and the British government issued the Balfour Declaration in November, 1917. Great Britain stated that it favored the creation of a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

Weizmann, described as an "English country gentleman" in the later years, would endure severe criticism from more radical Zionists because he refused to believe that Great Britain would not live up to its promise, worried about alienating the Arab world with its huge supply of oil. Chaim Weizmann had the honor of a meeting with King George V before he left for Palestine, representing the British government in an official capacity.

Vera says that the Jewish community in Palestine in 1918 numbered only about 40,000 and many had come only to be buried in the Holy Land. She says that almost all lived on contributions from the American and British Jewish communities. But the future began to unfold almost immediately with the construction of the foundation of Hebrew University in July, 1918. Vera made her first visit to Palestine in 1919 and she describes the extremely primitive conditions she endured.

At the same time, however, she noticed the many "pioneers," especially the women, working to build the infrastructure and housing for a new society. In response, Vera and a handful of other prominent women launched a Zionist organization for women at the beginning of the 1920s. She returned to Palestine with Chaim in 1925 to witness the dawn of a new era with the opening of Hebrew University.

Vera describes the 1920s as a "troublesome" decade. It quickly became apparent that the British would be in no hurry to implement the Balfour Declaration. Meanwhile American Zionists, led by the distinguished Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis, emerged as a major force in the movement. As might be expected, the Americans wanted to lead the movement. Chaim Weizmann would be elected president of the World Zionist Organization, but he endured immediate and continuing challenges.

Chaim made frequent trips to the United States to try to raise money for the rapidly expanding Jewish community in Palestine. In the process, however, he may have lost touch with the WZO. He would be ousted as president in July, 1931. Vera describes the decade of the 1930s for the Weizmanns as living, "in the wilderness." Despite British efforts to limit Jewish immigration to Palestine, as the situation for German Jews began to deteriorate, more than 42,000 Jews arrived in Palestine in 1934 and another 60,000 arrived in 1935.

Chaim Weizmann made no progress during World War II while Britain struggled to survive and the Holocaust raged on. Finally after the war, the issue of a Jewish homeland came to the newly created United Nations. Vera Weizmann acknowledges the role of President Harry Truman in personally intervening to determine the boundaries of the Jewish homeland. Vera says, "in my humble opinion President Harry Truman will always be remembered as one of our founding fathers."

Almost as soon as the State of Israel came into being in May, 1948, Chaim Weizmann would be selected to serve as Israel's first president, a largely symbolic position in a parliamentary democracy. Chaim Weizmann immediately became the most recognizable Jewish individual in the world. In less than three years his health deteriorated dramatically. He remained confined to his bed for about a year before his death in November, 1952, just a few days short of his 78th birthday. Vera died in 1966.

Our annual Sunset in the Sukkah was a huge success. More than 30 women, including a few new faces, joined together in celebration, to enjoy some social time, and of course, eat! Thank you to our event chairs Beth Adelman, Judy Chesen, and Ruth Ellenbogen for excellent work in putting together the event. Thank you to Cantor Raizen for her spiritual leadership during the program. Thank you to Carol Nathanson for serving as our mashgiach. This wonderful evening would not have been possible without each of you.

We are also co-sponsoring the final social action project for the 125th anniversary celebration. We are supporting the "Matilde's Mentionables" project by collecting items needed for Daybreak and Oasis House. Items needed include: men's and women's underwear, bottled water, and gift cards (Walmart, Target, Gas Cards). A complete list of items is available in the office. You may also write a check to Beth Abraham and we will do the shopping for you.

Nominations for the 2020 Women of Valor honorees is due November 4th. If you know a deserving woman, please complete the nomination form and submit it to the office by the deadline. The forms are available through a link on our website or in the office.

While these important efforts to address our building costs and financial obligation for the cemetery, in addition to building our reserves and establishing a long-term plan for testamentary giving, have the promise of providing a positive impact in the long term to Beth Abraham's financial health, it is critical that we work to address our current financial needs so we can continue to offer the wide array of programs and services that make Beth Abraham so remarkable. So as we enter this New Year, I ask each of you to say YES to this year's Yom Kippur Appeal. Say YES to maintaining the legacy of Beth Abraham. Say YES to continue to support the ritual, educational and social programs that make Beth Abraham the wonderful sacred community it is.

As your President, I know that this congregation is incredibly generous. The commitment of our Giving Society members and our success with the Grinspoon Life and Legacy program are testaments to this generosity. The response to The 125 Fund has been remarkable as well. Judaism asks a lot of us - our time, our talents and our resources. I am thankful that so many of you have answered the call in the past and sincerely hope that this year's Yom Kippur Appeal will continue this tradition of generosity. We need all of you to say YES to help meet our immediate obligations.

As I reflect on the success of the 125th Anniversary year celebration, the most heartening thing for me has been the involvement of so, so many of you in making it happen. So as I close, I want to make another important appeal. For those of you who have been actively engaged with the 125th Anniversary celebration, say YES and please stay engaged. And for those of you who have not yet had the opportunity to get involved, please say YES and join us in becoming a part of our wonderful community. I hope that each and every one of you will say YES to leading Beth Abraham into the next 125 years. And I hope that each of you and your families enjoy a year of good health, happiness and peace. May God inscribe us all in the Book of Life and bless us with the strength and conviction as we move together into the New Year 5780.

SOCIAL ACTION NEWS

The Social Action Subcommittee is partnering with Sisterhood for a final project for our anniversary year.

Through November, congregants will be invited to support "Mathilde's Mentionables," a social action project named after Mathilde Schechter, Solomon Schechter's wife, which Conservative Congregations are supporting. We will be collecting the following items for Daybreak and Oasis House: men's and women's underwear, bottled water and gift cards (Walmart, Target and gas cards). In addition, we will be putting together housewarming baskets for youth completing programs from Daybreak and moving into apartments.

A full list is available in the office and through News & Notes. For those who prefer, you can make a donation to Beth Abraham and we will do the shopping for you.
